

^c ^a Women is no longer the name of frailty.

A - Introduction:

B - Why is women no longer the name of frailty?

- Women are leading in political roles.
- Women are occupying more and more administrative positions redefining boardroom power
- Women have become the prime contributors to the national economies.
- Women have now made their space in the defence sector
- Women are standing shoulder to shoulder with men in the technological race.
- They are standing up for rights in every part of the world
- Women are leading in the activism against aggression

- Women have proved themselves to be the optimal users of technology and internet
- They have become the ultimate protectors of environment.
- Women are rising and excelling in the arts and showcasing of culture.
- Women are the pioneers of education and
- They have proved that they can balance modernity with tradition.

C - Why are women perceived as a frail being?

- muscular weakness
- patriarchal mindset
- misinterpretation of religion

D - Perceived Notions that women are frail is obsolete.

E - Conclusion