

Heavy is the head that wears the crown

1. Introduction:

Those-who are given the responsibility, have the burden to fulfill it with their utmost capability, honesty, and efficiency.

2. Heavy is the head that wears the crown:

2.1. An individual-being the wisest creation-is responsible for his actions

2.2. Parents-being the guardians-are responsible for raising their children for the well-being of society

2.3. Teachers-being the role models-are responsible for nurturing young minds

2.4. Politicians - being the representatives are responsible for working for the well-being of people

2.5. Leaders - being the ideal personalities - are responsible for shaping true vision in the mind of ^{their} followers

2.6. International organizations are responsible for performing their roles with honesty and integrity

2.7. Media is responsible for promoting the voice of victims and help them to get justice

2.8. Sportsmen are responsible for staying disciplined during the pressure situations to deliver miracle for their nation

//_: 30

2.9. Writers are responsible for writing the meaningful literary pieces that can shake an ordinary man's conscience

3. Conversely, what if head wearing the crown takes it light: The implications of not fulfilling responsibilities

3.1. Cowardly behaviour and negligence of leaders can lead to chaos in country

3.2. Professionals' negligence in their duties can lead to worse consequences

4. Conclusion

During World War II, Nazis wanted to attack Britain in order to spread bloodshed across Europe. However, it was the brave decision of Sir Winston Churchill—the PM of Britain at that time, to fight and not let this dream of Hitler get achieved. It was Churchill's responsibility to save the people of Britain—being the leader, which was fulfilled effectively. This statement simply means that ~~those~~ with greater roles comes great responsibilities. The crown does not only resembles glory, but a duty that demands honesty, integrity, and accountability. It applies at individual, social, national, and international level. For example, an individual is responsible to fulfill his civic duties. Similarly, parents and teachers are responsible to nurture young minds for the betterment of society. Moreover, politician, leaders, and international organizations are also responsible to always work for the betterment of ordinary people.

Conversely, if the ones, who are given the responsibility, fails to fulfill their duties. then it will lead to worse implications.

For instance, a leader's cowardly behavior during tough conditions in country can lead to chaos. So, it can be said that those - who are given the responsibility, have the burden to fulfill it with their utmost capability, honesty, and efficiency.

To begin with, an individual is responsible to fulfill his civic duties. Man is a social animal and the wisest creation among all. So, this wisest creation has certain duties that needs to be fulfilled.

For example, it is the responsibility of an individual to maintain good conduct with other individuals, to protect his environment, and to avoid misbehavior with other creations especially animals and birds.

//_:٤٥

The crown of wisest creation given by the God is not for glory, but a responsibility to live in harmony in His world. Hence, an individual should work for the betterment of others.

Similarly, parents are responsible for upbringing their children. Parents are the guardians of their children, and therefore, are responsible for raising them in good manners. It is the responsibility of parents to feed, clothe, and educate their children. For instance, a child's first school is the lap of mother. It is the duty of not only mother, but also of father to teach their children manners and etiquettes. Thus, being the guardians of children, parents must raise their children in the best way.

Apart from these, teachers are responsible for nurturing young minds.

Teaching is the most noble profession in a society, as they are often considered as role models. Being the role models, it is their duty to polish young minds. For example, it is the duty of teachers to promote critical thinking, encourage questioning, and guide students to right path. So, a teacher should not just teach syllabus, but also impart practical knowledge that can help students in their life.

Further, politicians are responsible for working for the well-being of people. Politicians are elected by people, so they are the representative of people. It is their responsibility to take those decisions which can benefit the ones who have chosen them as their representatives - the ones who placed crown on their head. For example, it is the duty of legislators to make those laws that can safeguard people, and of executives to implement those laws effectively. Thus, being the crown holders, politicians are responsible to protect it, otherwise, those who have placed it on their head can remove it too.

Furthermore, leaders are responsible for shaping true vision in the mind of their followers. Leaders are the ideal personalities of people, and they have the power to influence their lives. Becoming an ideal personality is not a title, but a responsibility - to influence the life of their followers positively. For instance, Prophet (PBUH) is the greatest leader ever humanity has, and Prophet (PBUH) had worked for the best of humanity throughout his life. Hence, if a title of 'ideal' is given, then the title holder has the responsibility to prove that no one else then him deserved this title.

Moreover, international organizations are responsible for performing their roles with honesty and integrity. This is a multipolar world where everyday a new crisis begins: from terrorism to bilateral conflicts, from violation of human rights to genocides, from climate change to trade conflicts. In these scenarios, there comes the role of international organizations to tackle these challenges.

For example, UN is responsible to fulfill its duties: to stop genocide, to make policies regarding climate change, and to protect human rights. Thus, international organizations are not just institutions, but a platform having some responsibilities which they have to fulfill.

In addition to these, media is responsible for promoting the voice of victims and help them to get justice. In this modern world, media-especially

1 1 30

Social media is a powerful tool to raise the voice for any ongoing issue. Social media allows users to share their opinion, start campaigns, or join any trends. For example, in 2012 a student named Shahzaib was murdered by an elite boy. It was social media's campaign for justice that led to imprisonment of murderers despite political pressure. Hence, media is responsible to ~~sho~~ be used for a better cause.

Another point is responsibility of a sportsman to stay disciplined during the pressure situations. A country selects its best players for international games, so the one who got this opportunity is responsible to prove his selection and made his nation pride. However, it is not easy, as there comes the situations pressure is high and one has to control one's nerves, and it is the high time to fulfill the responsibility. For example, during Australia and Afghanistan cricket match in World Cup 2023, Glenn Maxwell faced similar situation. Maxwell stayed disciplined and determined, leading his team to won - delivering a miracle. So, the crown placed on the head of a sportsman deserved glory by fulfilling responsibilities.

1/1/24

Moving further, a writer is responsible for writing the meaningful literary pieces that have the power to shake the conscience of an ordinary man. It is often said, ~~that~~ 'Pen is mightier than sword,' and of course it true. As the man holding the sword is responsible, so does the one having pen. For example, it was the writings of Voltaire, Rousseau, and Sartre that forced French to think rationally. Being the writers, it was their responsibility to write about the issues that are prevalent, and they did so successfully. So, when a writer holds a pen, it is his duty that the page should be filled with something meaningful.

However, sometimes some people, who are given the crown, fails to protect it because they disrespected it by not fulfilling the requirements to hold it on head: to fulfill the responsibilities that comes with it. By doing so, they have to face worst consequences which shows that they are not eligible for this crown. Below are some points showing what will happen if head wearing the crown takes it light.

Firstly, cowardly behavior and negligence of leaders can lead to chaos in country. As mentioned by staying disciplined in pressure situations. Moreover, leader and politicians should fulfill their responsibilities and inspire people. If they failed, they will be dethroned. A leader's failure to fulfill the requirements of a crown leads to chaos in country.

— 1 — 1 — 30

So, those who are chosen the crown should know that it is a great power given to them and with great power comes greater responsibilities.

Everyone, be it an individual, a professional, or a leader, has its crown; they just need to know the demands of that crown to be placed on their head forever. Once they come to know about the demands, they have to fulfill those.

Had Churchill never known that his crown demands bravery, Churchill would have lost his crown — allowing Nazis to spread holocaust in Britain too.