An Excited Trip to Chorokrae

The author wanted an exciting tour. His friend suggested a trip to Cherokee. They took a flight to Cherokee. They visited a town, Qualla Boundary that presents Cherokee's past to tourists. They went to Souvenir shops. They chatted here to a man, named George. He told them that he had to work full day during tour season. But it is better from being a woodcutter. They know from him that trade is not enough for their survival. They had to try other ways to earn money such as Bingo weekend. Their last stop was in Qualla Boundary. After coming back to home, the author missed the place and think about another next exotic trip.
