Who would have thought that media would be used to inform the world about genocide in Gaza? The importance of media had never been before than now. Places where conventional media failed to tell the true and complete picture of Palestine-Israel conflict, citizen journalism played its role on social media. Social media put pressure on governments of several countries which led to the recognition of Palestinian state. Countries saw mass protests, which led to another; only because of social media.

The painful and helpless voice of Hind Rajab shattered every person. She was just a child who was killed with his whole family by Israeli Defence Forces (IDF). Conglomerates and big companies saw sharp decline in sales.

Media have played a significant role in the Palestine-Israel conflict; both positive and negative. But the positive roles are much more than the negative ones.
