Language Makes Human Different Chapte

~~We~~ humans are known as Homo Sapiens, but in context of anthropology we are termed as homo Faber - the - Smith, means the tools makers. Author said that the only thing which makes human different from others is language. If humans could not speak they would have been like apes. Through the use of language human can understand and communicate message. Language helps humans to express their expressions, make laws, set some ideal ethics or make a civilization.
