

Essay:

Government should eliminate subsidies and incentives for manufacturers and consumers of electric cars as they are costly and do not do enough to protect environment

1. Introduction:

2. The government should provide subsidies and incentives for manufacturers and consumers of electric cars because:

A - Competing in technological race is necessary.

B - It is an important step towards moving to renewable energy.

C - Transition to e-vehicles will promote investment

D - E-cars are easy to operate and more safer

E- Electric vehicles as mean toward women driving in conservative societies

F- less dependancy on costly conventional fuel

3. Moving to electric cars is an important step towards environmental protection:

A- Reduced Carbon emissions

B- Better Air Quality Index

C- Electric cars as an important step to deter global warming

D- Makes government able to seek climate funding

E- E-vehicles are key to reduce noise pollution

F- Reducing carbon footprint by moving to E-cars.

4. Conclusion.

In the changing global dynamics, world is moving on to new and enhanced advancements in technology. Electric cars are one of them. These cars use electricity to function rather than using conventional ones such as petrol, gas, and diesel. Shifting to electric cars from conventional ones is important to compete in global technological race. Also, this shift will attract foreign investment in cars manufacturing industry.

Moreover, this shift will be an important step towards less dependancy on conventional fuel. When it comes to the protection of environment, electric cars play a crucial role. Operating electric cars will result in carbon emission reduction and carbon footprint of cars will be reduced exponentially. These vehicles will also help in reducing global warming to sustainable levels. Furthermore, governments will be able to seek climate funding by capitalizing on the shift.

Therefore, government should not eliminate subsidies and incentives for manufacturers and consumers because electric cars are ~~they~~ beneficial to the country and its environment.

Your points are okay

It's better to start your Introduction with attention Grabber