~~CSS-1719 PRECIS.~~

It is here -

Human intellect must be trained to develop an empathic capacity. It enhances civic sense and social survival. Educational institutions and mentors must focus on instilling moral sensitivity in humans. Religious figures of history have failed to perform this very task. Powerful historical figures had power as their centre of morality, a concept that was a trigger for disaster. The author is optimistic that educators of the present world can serve this purpose for humanity. They must devise a way to preach kindness, respect and moral values as significant traits.
