MAKARIM AKHLAQ: IMPORTANCE IN ESTABLISHING SOCIAL PEACE

INTRODUCTION:

Social peace is not merely the absence of conflict and hatred; it is the presence of justice, compassion, tolerance, and mutual respect. Islam places the foundation of such peace not primarily on institutions and legal systems, but on the moral excellence of individuals that collectively shape a harmonious society. The Quran repeatedly emphasizes good character, while the prophet Muhammad (PBUH) was sent to perfect it. Through his noble conduct, he (PBUH) carried out this task perfectly. Thus, understanding Makarim Akhlaq is essential for grasping how Islam constructs a peaceful social order.

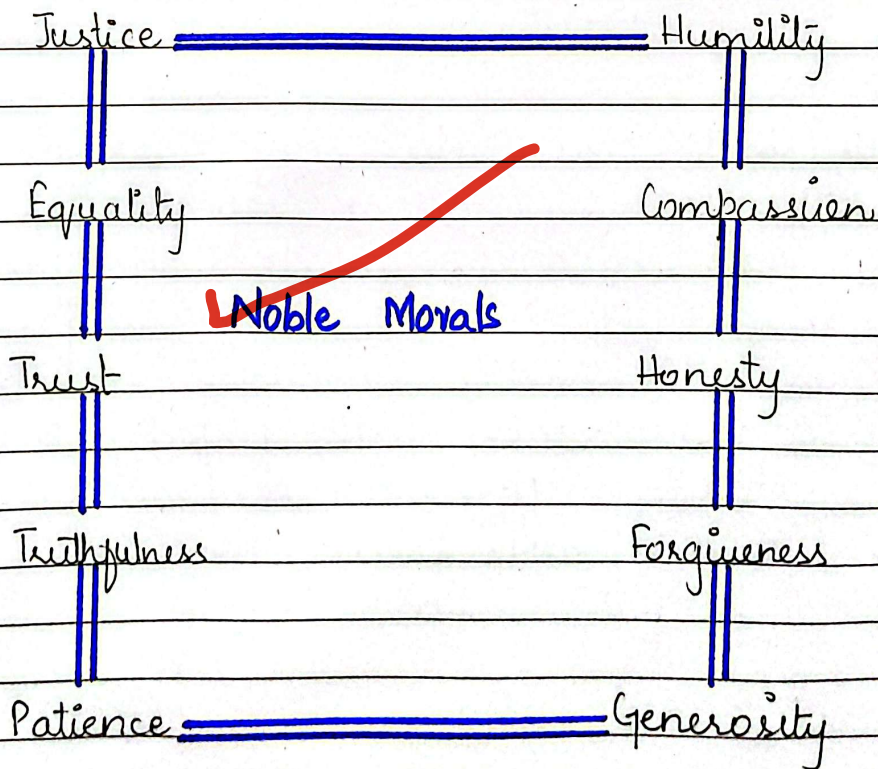

MEANING OF MAKARIM AKHLAQ

Makarim Akhlaq (noble morals) refers to the highest and most refined moral qualities including sincerity, justice, generosity, and forgiveness. The Prophet (PBUH) said;

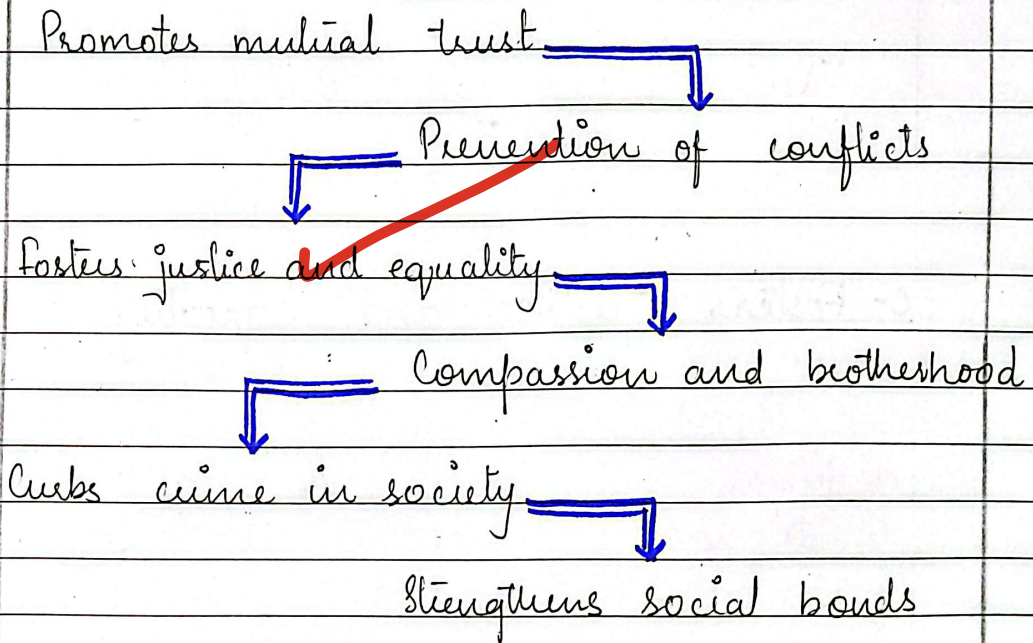

"I was sent to perfect righteous moral character."

—Mustad Ahmed

This reveals that morals are not secondary teachings only. They are also central to the entire purpose of prophethood.
