

Name :- Muhammad Mustajab
badge = 403.

→ Pragmatism vs Passion in Politics:-

(A) Introduction:-

(B) Pragmatism in politics by factual and actual reality.

(1)

(1) In practical, political parties and leaders take solid decisions on practical reasoning.

(2) More mature and more informed decisions.

(3) Parties or leaders made policies on practical grounds, when it comes to pragmatism.

(4) There is no chance for emotions to be fit in.

(5) Pragmatism in politics is more mature form of governance.

(6) It leads to more evaluative proceedings

(7) Practical politician are more concerned towards governance and exactly knows the managing tactics.

③ Practical politics always understand matter by more legitimate manner.

=> Passion or enthusiasm in Politics:-

① Passion is type of politics which try to deliver ~~deliberately~~ deliberately quick.

② Passionate politics are too sincere it sometimes ignores practical realities.

③ Passion in politics creates a leader which is more contended.

④ Passion in politics sometimes took political engineer or politicians on a point which can't be fulfill.

⑤ It mostly based on Idealism ignoring realities

⑥ Passionate politics is more concise but difficult to execute.

⑦ Enthusim in politics motivates leader towards more emotion based decisions

"Democracy thrives not when politicians win elections, but when citizens win dignity, justice, and a voice in shaping their destiny."

"^{Politics} Democracy is the art of giving power a conscience." Thomas Jefferson

Politics in fact synonymous art though some of the leaders follow or execute it by passion while others practise those practical dilemmas on the basis of facts. Following or executing the power by passion or either in a disciplined manner are two different things, which are totally perpendicular to each other. Exercising it on pragmatism is more mature terminology where the leaders exercise it on the basis of realities provides on practical ground rather than creating hypothesis of theories or escalated dilemmas. But on the other hand some political parties and some leaders did politics with that much devotion and passion that they some times reject the realities and practise those emotion based persuasions. In practical, political parties and leaders take some bold solid steps based on authenticity. When pragmatism politics been practising then leaders in these types of practises taking more informed and well prescribed decisions. Most in practical based politics in term of pragmatism there are less chances of emotions to be fit in. Practical politicians are more concerned towards governance and exactly knows managing tactics.

Hence there are number of Pathways that following them we could established more pragmatized governing body.

In Pragmatic type of governance system leaders are more coherent towards making more mature decision or policies.

It means that pragmatic type of governing system first established it's complete domain that how it will tends towards the smart execution or managing of such matters. When transforming to the basics of reasoning such leaders could definitely paves a way to solvation when dealing in a slow constant manner.

Mature politics always stands on pragmatic measures and hence creates a solid