

A Trip TO Cherokee

During his vacation the writer had a hard time choosing a tour due to common options everywhere. ~~and Belle~~ ^{and him} wanting to go to a different place away from tour crowds. He then went to ^{town} Qualla Boundary, in Oklahoma, with his friend John, that was surrounded by mountain scenery and presented a paradise picture. Qualla boundary presents the Cherokee past to the tourists by playing a song regularly in its Oconaluftee Indian village.

They managed to go to ~~the~~ souvenir shops with help of natives. They were filled with relics of the ^{tribal} past. A middle aged man ~~fluent in~~ ~~I~~ asked them if they needed anything and then invited them to ~~breakfast~~ lunch. He talked about his past and Cherokee people's source of income. Their final stop was at a Qualla Boundary museum harbouring Cherokee cosmology symbols. The writer ~~was~~ looked forward to another exotic trip place and missed Cherokee. (147 words)
