

Title:

Influence of Reading on Reader.

The author explains the intellectual ability of human's imagination. He argues that reading of something is not merely a literary taste, but its influence wholly amongst in many ways. Its best performance is in the history of individual education. An adolescent remembers some moment when he read ~~some~~ one poet in first. When he carried away by several poets, maturity built in him. It is temporary attachment and overwhelming on the under-developed personality. He examines to poets have a different qualities which are incompatible with each others. It grows a critical power which protects from excessive possession. However, Reading is valuable when this process is being affected on powerful personality.
