

Date: 1/1

Something ~~Must~~ M T W T F S

Must be Done.

The Evils that prevail in the world are not because of idleness rather because of misdirected diligence. The writer believes that of all the beings, the devil is the busiest creature and that in his kingdom ^{laziness} would be a punishable offence. The world today is in chaos not because nobody is doing anything but because everybody is doing everything. The continuous human urge of always working hard has lead to major catastrophes. If only mankind denounced laziness to be a crime, the world would have been much peaceful. Everyone, including statesmen, kings, rulers and dukes, must shift away from the rule of a living a strenuous life. Only the disasters like the world wars could be prevented.

Req. = 140

Precis = 140