

Reading Comprehension 2022

Q. 1.

The author describes civil society as a place where people meet, interact and influence public opinion. It is a formal gathering which include sport clubs, reading groups promoting social interaction and share common interest.

Q. 2.

Author describes that people join the society on the basis of common interest but sometimes they create differences within the community. They do not leave group instead develop strategies for the unity of group. They value people and tolerate differences which is the characteristics of good nation.

Date: _____

Day: _____

Q. 3:

Social Capital refers to relationship, social trust and mutual obligation among societies which work smoothly and effectively to promote solidarity.

Q. 4:

Civil Society assume the role when people see their private interest as collective interest. They start campaign to protect communities and influence local governance.

Q. 5:

By weakening state of civil society, people will lose trust and become less socializing leading to less effective political institution.

Date: _____

Day: _____

Translation

A wise man told across the forest lies a mountain where rare flower grow - its fragrance can bring the lost sight. But the mountain is very tall and there are lots of rocks, thorny bushes and big stones on it which stop the path. On reaching this mountain, many people have gone and lost there but no one could reach at the flower. Perhaps, it is sorrow and pain in the world and man is in search of light.

Precis 2017

Title: Benefits of doing nothing

According to the author, people who are doing directionless work are worst in the world. Devil, the busiest creature, recognizes worth of time. No one can do nothing without his permission. The complexity of world is not due to laziness and lack of virtue but due to lack of kindness and steady thoughts. The people who have misdirected work are better than idle.

Taking pause is better than continuous work. If our leaders do nothing instead of ^{spending} meaningless energy, they might create peace in the world. Mostly, people waste time in religious conferences by putting future at stake. It would be better for them to look at the sky and maintain their health.