

Out line Essay

Topic:- Both parents should assume equal responsibilities in rising a child.

(A) Introduction

(B) Yes it's true both parents are responsible for grooming a child.

① For most parents are responsible how they nourished their child responsibility.

② As being male dominant society all the responsibility how they nourished their child personality.

③ Both the husband and wife working on different necessarily aspects will escalate parents' hold on child.

④ Both of parents father and mother should participate to solidate the personality of the child.

⑤ Throwing all the charge on one parenting body is decimated practise.

⑥ Child need mindfulness from both sides mother and father.

⑧ Child always made perception how their parents treat him.

"A child blossoms best when the love of a mother and the guidance of a father walk hand in hand."

⑨ Child is always fond of essence of love from parents.

⑩ Limitation, challenges that distract attention of parents from child.

⑪ Sometimes hectic routine of parents stops them to read between lines what child needs.

⑫ There are mostly fathers or sometimes both of them retrieve the attention to child.

⑬ Mostly parents are busy in multi-lateral tasks, might be their jobs which dissiminate their focus towards child.

⑭ Nowadays due to fast consuming routine new generation women is also working lady.

so she has no unanimous time to spare.

"The hands of both parents together shape the soul of a child into what it becomes tomorrow" Alan bond.

Thou verily it is foremost the responsibility of both the parents to groom and developed a complete persuasive personality of a child. Both the parents not only fathers but mothers too, are responsible to groom a balanced child. Foremost parents are responsible how they nourished their child, parents considered to be first institution of informal learning which always starts from home. As being male dominant society responsibility of a father is considered more valuable ~~both~~ ^{but} according to modern researchers one could not alone disintegrate the vicious circle of grooming for development of child personality. Both husband and wife when together working on the necessarily aspects of child could developed a complete understanding of a child and then their child will contribute to developing of a soundful society. So it could not be possible without one both of the parents are responsible in solidating a strong generic of a child. Therefore, throwing all the charge on one parenting body is desliminated praetise and it could be possible till the assertion of both the commodities equally play their role. Hense child is fund of affection and questions for the equal mindfulness from both father and mother. There are number of arguement that could prove that child is hungry for the attention of both the perrents. In a nutshell a child is fund of the love of both the perrents.

Parrents are always accountable on all what their child did, so it is foremost duty of both the perrents to transform their child. Parrents are the child's first teachers and role models, A child learns menner values and behaviour by observing them. If parrents don't take responsibility the child may adopt some negative hebbits from the society. According to UNESCO recommend due to so busy and messive routine parrents even don't spare a time to talk to their childrens on even on even so nominal matters. Due to absence of parenting role in their development of the child it leads to such distraction where child stop discussing sensitive topics with parents. Hence considering a male dominant society all the responsibility is thrown on the shoulder of a father. It explains how the myth is trodden that it is the only responsibility of a father how he provides every possible audacity for their child. Parents provide moral, cultural and emotional foundation that shapes the child's personality and future, without parenting grooming, a child may lack discipline, empathy and responsibility which are necessary for becoming a good human being and a productive citizen. According to Freedom homes Report most of the fathers throw parenting responsibility to mothers only which leads to overall destruction, Therefore due to so busy routine father sometimes look aside making mothers responsible. By considering a number of arguments we can conclude from the fact that presence of love from both the parents are very important to make and developed a complete personality of a child. To adding to it sometimes hectic routine of parents stops them to read between the lines and to get what child needs. Both the parents even father and mother both are equally responsible in development of the child, for making a solidary personality of a child both will play an equal role. Therefore throwing all the responsibility on one parenting body is not good practise, hence child is always in fund of mindfulness from both the sides - the father and the mother. Furthermore, child always make perception how their parents treat him, as parents are the medium of learning and leaves a deffinant ap impression of child's development. To add to it, child is always a fund of love which he alway try to find from the parents child is always in search of satisfaction which lies in the presence of parents. There is no doubt in the practicality and seriousness of parents if they take it seriously they could groom a child more better.