

Rewrite the following dialogue, written in direct speech, in a paragraph form. (5)

Jack: Hello, Swarup! Swatting away as usual. Come out, man; shut up your old books, and come and have a game of tennis.

Swarup: I am sorry I cannot do that, Jack. The examination is drawing near, and I want every hour I can get for study.

Jack: Oh! Hang all examinations! I do not worry about mine. What is the use of them, any way?

Swarup: Well, you can't get a degree if you don't pass the examination; and I have set my heart on being a graduate.

Jack: And pray what good will graduation do you? You may get a clerkship in a government office; but that's all, and there are hundreds of fellows who have got their degrees, and are no nearer getting jobs of any sort.

Swarup: That may be so; but I am not studying so much to pass my examination and obtain my degree, as to store my mind with knowledge and develop my intellectual faculties.

Rewrite the following dialogue, written in direct speech, in a paragraph form.

Jack greeted Swarup who was sitting as usual, and asked him to come out, shut up his books and to have a game of tennis. Swarup ^{apologised} that he could not come as the examination was drawing near, and he wanted every hour he could get for study. Jack ~~dismissively~~ dismissively asked Swarup to hang all examinations, saying that he did not worry about his own, and asked him what ~~was~~ the use of them. Swarup replied that one cannot get a degree without passing the examination and he had set ~~his own~~ heart on being a graduate. Jack asked Swarup what graduation would do for him, adding that he might get a ~~clerkship~~ in a government office, and there are hundred of fellow's who had ^{were} gotten their degrees, and were no longer getting jobs of any sort. Socrates replied he was not studying to pass his examination and obtain his degree; rather he was doing so to store his mind with knowledge and develop his intellectual faculties.
