

Delayed marriage: Causes and Consequences:

Outline

Your points are fine but avoid cutting in introduction

(1) Introduction

Adopt a more formal writing style

Thesis statement: Marriage can be delayed because of Educational and career priorities, Economic problems, Unrealistic expectations, Family issues and restrictions and Fear of responsibilities, This eventually resulted the Social, economic, psychological and biological effects of people.

(2) Causes of delayed marriage.

(2.1) Educational and career priorities:

(2.1.1) Young men and women want to focus on higher education and establish careers.

(2.2) Economic problems

(2.2.1) Unemployment

(2.2.2) Poverty and lack of resources make it difficult to bear marriage expenses

2.3) Unrealistic Expectations.

(2.3.1) Waiting for ideal partner who matches to their status.

2.4) Family issues and restrictions.

(2.4.1) Caste and Sect restrictions

(2.4.2) Long waiting for proposals

2.5) Fear of Responsibilities.

(2.5.1) Rising divorce rates create fear of marital failure

(2.5.2) Hesitant to marry early and fear of responsibilities.

(3) Consequences of delayed marriage.

3.1) Social Consequences.

(3.1.1) Decline in birth rate

(3.1.2) Aging problem

(3.1.3) Reduced chances of finding a suitable partner

3.2) Psychological consequences:

(3.2.1) Loneliness

(3.2.2) Stress and anxiety develop due to social pressure.

Date: _____

Days: _____

(3.3) Fear of remaining unmarried affect self esteem.

(3.3) Biological consequences

(3.3.1) For women, delayed marriage lead to fertility and pregnancy complications.

(3.3.2) For men, it can result in reduced energy and health issues with age.

(3.4) Economic consequences.

(3.4.1) Reducing long term economic support for aging parents.

(4) Conclusion

Essay: Delayed marriage: Causes and consequences.

Once, during the time of Hazrat Umar, a women came to him and complained that her father had refused several good proposals for her because he wanted her to marry within his tribe.

Hazrat Umar called her father, and said: "Do not delay the marriage of your children, for if a good match is found, delay leads to trials and regret." This shows that delaying marriage without a proper reason can lead to several ~~other~~ problems. Marriage is considered a social, emotional and cultural institution ~~which~~ ensures a happy life with partner and family stability, and continuation of society. However, in modern age, the trend of delayed marriage is becoming increasingly common world wide.

Date: _____

Delayed marriage is a trend caused by the educational and career priorities, economic issues, unrealistic expectations, family issues or restrictions, and fear of responsibilities and divorce. These all cause eventually resulted in ~~biological, psychological, social and economic effect on~~ human. So, a balanced approach is needed where individual can marry early age and plan and manage both career and family wisely.