

CHARITY IS SOMETIMES A SWEET POISON

1. INTRODUCTION

- Charity generally ~~considered~~ ^{is} an act of kindness in society.
- It ~~has~~ ^{has} ~~implication~~ ^{implications} of life ~~at the individual and national level.~~
- Thesis ^{Statement}

avoid writing too much generic

2. CONTEXTUALIZING THE VARIOUS FORMS OF CHARITY

3. CHARITY AS A SWEET POISON

A) FOR AN INDIVIDUAL

- 3.1 Promotes ~~laziness~~ ^{inactivity} by creating expectations of ~~free~~ ^{handouts}
 - Unemployment ~~persists~~ ^{persists} due to charity
- 3.2 A short term ~~measure~~ ^{measure} that is devoid of a ~~lasting~~ ^{lasting} impact
 - Charity ~~used~~ ^{used} to fulfill a person's basic survival needs
- 3.3 Fails in ~~prompting~~ ^{prompting} an individual to act and work hard
 - Over ~~reliance~~ ^{reliance} on charity for support
- 3.4 Enables low wage workers to quit and seek ~~charity~~ ^{charity} as an easy source of income

B) FOR a Country

3.5 Makes governments dependent on foreign aid and grants.

→ ~~Reliance~~ on financial institutions like world bank and IMF over reliance on

3.6 ~~Prevents action towards addressing root problems in the country~~

→ Allowances for disaster affectees instead of ~~mitigation~~ mitigation efforts

3.7 Charity funds certain ideologies and movements of donors

→ Funding of religious institutions like madrasahs and churches

3.8 Charitable initiatives used as a front for corruption and laundering money.

→ NGOs linked with untraceable accounts

4. CURE TO THE POISON OF CHARITY

4.1 Regulated charity and welfare programs with strong oversight

→ Benazir Income support programme

4.2 Diversion of money towards upskilling and training programs

→ Skill development initiatives

4.3 Monitoring and evaluation mechanisms for the transfer and use of charity

4.4 Policies to address root problems and reduce reliance on foreign aid.

CONCLUSION

- While charity may promote welfare in society, it also carries some ills.
- By introducing effective mechanisms and regulatory frameworks, we can cure the ills carried by charity in society.

try to write well directional sentences

try to be more substantiative