

(2013)

- 1) Why do you think the author calls Confucius' belief about the progress of human society as a delusion?

single sentence answer is incorrect format answer is

Author calls Confucius' belief as a delusion because of two reasons: One is he says that human society is not progressive and second is modern man could hardly achieve happiness.

- 2) How did Confucius' thought effect china to develop into a stable & proper china?

Confucius personality has greatly affect ~~chinese~~ china and its civilization. He has been of the view; to create a stable state and society and while maintaining their excellence do not strive for a new success.

incorrect sentence
structure and grammar

3) Why does the author think that Confucian System deserves respect and admiration?

According to the author Confucian System deserves respect and admiration because during his life time China established into a proper state (today's China), expanded its territory and population. Along with this, Confucius's major legacy is that he brought art and literature ~~along with~~ despite of barbarian invasions and civil war.

4) Why does the author call Confucian System a purely ethical system & not a religion?

Author call Confucian System a purely ethical system and not a religion ~~because~~ Confucian teachings were not religious neither it preaches supernatural beliefs nor it taught mystical beliefs. It was purely

M T W T F S

ethical. it teaches ordinary man basic ethics. And it was easy for them to practise.

answers are incoherent and there is issue of basic grammar
and sentences
not satisfactory
over all need alot of improvement
5/20