Title:

Globalization and Technical Change

Globalization has pros and cons. It has established fast communication means among the nations. But, it also generates numerous challenges, like economic inequalities, domination of one culture and global competition. For the protection of local identities, depressed nations are promoting the national movements and awareness. Similarly the emergence of Artificial intelligence has created further challenges in the form of job displacement. Hence, the policy makers have been scrambling to promote the technical education and skills for promotion of equality and awareness about new inventions.
