

Morality : The soft Power.

It is a challenge for educators and institutes to produce morally intelligent human beings. Conventionally, the idea of social morality was left to religion and churches as patron and caretakers. But their incapacity to ~~practice~~ fulfil this responsibility and producing seductive lures of the rich men and power culminated in the irrelevant rhetoric of "God Is Dead". The more practical men in power had no time and urge to handle basic problems of social morality. The oversimplification leads to the greater chances of nuclear destruction. Therefore, we should hope, that teachers and institutes have capability to inculcate moral sensitivity as imperative to human intelligence. Somehow, we should train human beings to spread love, kindness, integrity and empathy.
