

Precis 2018

Climate Change and Human Life

In temperate regions, cold climate stimulates man to engage in various activities. For instance build houses, wear thick clothes, supply fuels and provide plenty of nourishing food. In contrast, tropical regions near equator have hot climates, provides comfort to an individual without any danger as nature provides everything for a sustainable life. Therefore, climate effects the human life as hot climate makes a man sluggish while cold climate activates man's mind and body.

(words count: 73)