Title: Trip to Cherokee

During last vacation, the author wanted to somewhere exciting and exotic. However, his friend suggested Cherokee. The author first visited Qualla boundary — brief image of Cherokee, which was surrounded by mountain. Similarly, Qualla boundary was like India village producing tribal crafts. Despite language barrier, the author find souvenir shop — filled with rubber tomahawks and traditional war bonnets. In shop, George — middle aged man with fluent english welcome the author and later invited for lunch. George said that he is woodcutter, but ~~can~~ earn more during tour season especially Bingo weekend. After that, the writer final stop was Qualla Boundary was at museum. Back at home, the author missed the place and look forward next trip like that place.
