TITLE:

Civilizations Are Glorified Through Peace Not Wars

A historical study of causes of break down of civilizations proves that war is the immediate cause of downfall of civilizations. These war games have had more detriments than benefits and the defeated party was pardoned by the victorious one, so both the parties never regretted about the devastations occurred during war. But with the passage of time and development in technology wars have become more lethal due to nuclear weapons. In past sometimes the war situation had been tackled through peace process to save the society from destruction through two alternative ways: either through individual efforts by citizens or through collective efforts by the governments. However, in recent times the peace making strategies are more acceptable than warfare.
