

Decreasing Enrollments in Pakistani Universities:

Causes and Consequences

1. Introduction

2. Causes of decreasing enrollments in Pakistani universities.

- (a) Rising costs of universities
- (b) Lack of resources and infrastructure
- (c) Shortage of well-trained teachers
- (d) Outdated syllabus (not aligned with modern technology)
- (e) Corruption and favouritism in universities
- (f) Terrorist attacks on universities
- (g) Political interference in universities

3. Consequences of decreasing enrollments in Pakistani universities.

- (a) Emigration of educated and skilled people to other countries
- (b) Exacerbation of poverty - (Unemployment)
- (c) Leading to financial instability and institution closure.
- (d) Impacting economic growth of country
- (e) Creating class base difference
- (f) Limiting access to quality education for marginalized communities.
- (g) Leading to political instability.

4. Conclusion

Thesis Statement :

There are several causes and consequences of decreasing enrollment in Pakistani universities.