

The overuse of mobile phones by aspirants can lead to the failure in exams. It misdirect the minds to spend the time on irrelevant things. According to French university study, A person average spending time on social media is about thirty minutes. The Aspirants passing ratio in their written exams are about 2:1. and its biggest reason is using of mobile phone with study. A student appears on facebook, and he shows his facebook screen time which was 14 hours. We can realize being an aspirants that it is acting like a poison in our preparation. ^{when} The Aspirant came to problem which trying to stop him from studying, the time has passed away. Unless the Aspirants keep them away from the mobile phones, while preparation, then they will continue to fail in their css exams.