The Essay

"Only the dead have seen the end of war" says Pluto. War is an armed conflict between two or more groups having issue politically. Effects of war are so destructive that no one can prevent from it. War can be ended but the effects of war are long live. Therefore, war causes various consequences, some are seen; for instance, loss of human life, infrastructure destruction, economically instability. However, it has many unseen consequences which can be faced by the people of nations involved in wars. For example in Russia/Ukraine war, the effects of war is not only impact on Ukraine.

people but also on Russian people. Similarly on the Gaza and Israel war. War only causes negative impact on the people. In addition, it had destroyed everything wherever it happened.

The unseen consequences of war are the psychological consequences causing trauma, in children, depression and anxiety in adults. It impacts very badly on the young soldiers that survive in war by creating negative thoughts and trauma mentally. In addition, war causes environmental consequences including pollution and global warming. Moreover, it causes social and cultural impact or consequences by breaking of family and lossing of loved ones. Mainly, it causes economic instability including difficulty in providing education to the youths. Consequently, "the war does not determine who is right but only who is left" says Bertrand Russell.

Firstly, Psychological consequences of the war is a major contributor in under development of a nation. Because it effects especially youth. War impacts on health. For instance, depression and anxiety in adults while trauma in children. A research study of multi stage cluster group of atleast 800 adults in Afghanistan shows the result of negative impact of war on health of individuals. Consequently, 67.7% of adults in Afghanistan faced the depression in their daily lives. In addition, 72.2% of adults had anxiety in their daily tasks. Similarly, in every nation where war had occurred, people faced health issues these such as in Ukraine, every individual especially children get trauma by facing daily attacks of war. Thus causing threat for losing life and depression because people are facing these threats to every one.

Secondly, less development in children and youths are more common because of.

psychological threats caused by war. It results in lack of cognitive and psychomotor development in children. Thus, children are unable to develop in normal way. Moreover, they have threat for their lives so they would not participate in any activity resulting in lack of confidence and mental illness. War also affects the affective means emotional development of youths because they were seeing their loved ones at the time of war in front of them which results in producing negative impact on them emotionally. They will not believe in any one because they were attacked many times and losing their loved ones

Besides psychological effects, war causes environmental effects on all the individuals.

Instance, Environmental pollutions and global warming along with deforestation and long

Lasting affects in atmosphere.

Mainly, air pollution is a major contributor in environmental consequences of war because it causes many health diseases, for example, lung cancer, or respiratory diseases.

It not only affects human but also animals birds.

In contrast, it causes deforestation that results in removing of wild life.

The effect of environmental degradation due to war can be shown by the ~~event~~<sup>event</sup> of World war II when America bombed nuclear weapon upon two Japanese states namely Hiroshima and Nagasaki. In addition, that war effects worsely and is a worse example of war in world because that nuclear bomb destroyed the whole city in less than one minute. Not only that, the impact of these bombs were also seen after that time. For Instance, children were born abnormally, the people who survived that worst condition were lost their organs. Thus, some had lost one eye, some had lost a leg. Consequently, it it caused so much global warming at that place that even peoples were evaporate in a second and the in shadows were remained.
