Why Aspirants Fail in Competitive Exams:

The Essay

The fourth reason behind failure is unsuitable environment. Firstly, there is unsupportive home environment. For example, in case of girls, parents pressurized them for marriages and similiary, on boys there are household responsibilities. Parents compare their children with others children: that your batchmates are well-settled and you are jobless. Secondly, the company of man influences on his preparation. His friends demotivates him. They said that these competitive exams are very tough, you cannot do that and give examples of failures. It cause a negative impact on human mind, and might be lose self-confidence. In addition, the harsh weather in exams also a reason in failure. Mostly exams are in Summer or in Winter. For example, CSS-25 held in February when cold at its Peak. Obviously, there were no heaters.

Unsuitable temperature can reduce the focus and speed of writing. And heavy rainfalls, fogs and heatwaves make it difficult to reach the exam halls. Similarly, in summers loadshedding create hurdles in the way of exam preparation which leads to the failure in exam.

Another critical issue is digital distractions. In this connection, excessive use of social media has worse effect on the preparation of exams. Some so-called YouTubers are always criticizing these competitive exams and said that success is depend on personal connections than merit. So, aspirants get demotivated. Similarly, students are watching memes and reels. They consume so much irrelevant material. In videos, they use slang and casual english but in exams academic english is required. Furthermore, they students <sup>are</sup> scrolling one application to another. They wasted so much time and gave minimum time on exam preparation. Automatically their sleep cycle get disturb.
