

Write the precis of the following passage:

Home is for the young, who know nothing of the world and who would be forlorn and sad if thrown upon it. It is providential, the shelter for the weak and inexperienced who have to learn as yet to cope with the temptations which lie outside of it. It is the place of training for those who are not only ignorant but have not yet learned how to learn, and who have to be taught by careful individual attention how to profit from the lessons of the teacher. And it is the school of elementary studies — not of advances, for such studies alone can make masterminds.

Moreover, it is the shrine of our best affections, the bosom of our fondest recollections, a spell upon our afterlife, a stay for world-weary mind and soul; wherever we are, till the end comes. Such are attributes or offices of home, and like to these, in one or other sense or measure, are the attributes and offices of a college in a university. (170 words)
