

Day: _____

Date: _____

Class / Home Work

Correction Work

SOCIAL STEREOTYPES RATHER THAN ECONOMIC FACTORS ARE BARRIERS TO FEMALE EDUCATION

OUTLINE

1. INTRODUCTION

2. SOCIAL STEREOTYPES THAT ACT AS BARRIERS TO FEMALE EDUCATION

- i- The "domestic destiny" stereotype
- ii- Burden of unpaid care work
- iii- Fear of honor being compromised
- iv- "Men provide, women reside" galaxy
- v- peer pressure and societal norms
- vi- Preference to men's education
- vii- Association of certain fields to males
- viii- Lack of female role models
- ix- Marriage concerns
- x- Perception of girls' lower intellectual capability

3. CONCLUSION

Teacher's Signature: _____

Day: _____

Date: _____

Class / Home Work

Correction Work

CHANGING CONTOURS OF THE FOREIGN POLICY OF PAKISTAN

Outline

1. INTRODUCTION

2. FOREIGN POLICY OF PAKISTAN

- i- Geopolitics to Geo-economics shift
- ii- Strengthening ties with USA
- iii- Hedging strategy in a multipolar world
- iv- Deepening ties with "Global South"
- v- Energy diplomacy with central Asian states
- vi- Enhancing diplomacy with Gulf states
- vii- Managing "Afghan border" dilemma
- viii- Enhancing regional connectivity
- ix- climate diplomacy
- x- cold peace relations with India

3. CONCLUSION

Teacher's Signature: _____

Pakistan has been changing contours of foreign policy over time. The country is ~~shift~~ shifting its focus from security - centric to geo-economic. Moreover, Pakistan is not only strengthening ties with USA but also adopted Hedging strategy in a multipolar world to balance relations with regional powers. Furthermore, Pakistan is also enhancing diplomatic relations with Global South through membership of different regional organizations, as well as energy diplomacy with Central Asian countries. Moreover, the country is also focusing on institutional diplomacy with Gulf states. Similarly, it is also managing "Afghan border" dilemma to counter terrorism. In addition to, Pakistan is also enhancing regional connectivity particularly through SAARC, ECO, and BIMSTEC. It is also involved in climate diplomacy. The foreign policy of Pakistan is changing over time by shifting focus and focus on better relations with other states.