

Dialogue: (Teacher scolding a careless student)

Teacher: Ahmed, why are you late again? This is the third time this week.

Ahmed: I'm sorry, sir. I missed the bus today.

Teacher: That is just an excuse. A responsible student always reaches on time.

Ahmed: Sir, it won't happen again.

Teacher: And where is your homework? Don't tell me you forgot that too.

Ahmed: Sir... I couldn't complete it. I was busy yesterday.

Teacher: Busy doing what? Playing games, I suppose?

Ahmed: Yes sir... a little.

Teacher: Studies should be your first priority. If you waste time like this, you will regret it later.

Ahmed: You are right, sir. I promise I will be more careful from now on.

Teacher: Good. Now sit down and focus on your lesson.

Teacher inquired Ahmed and explored the reason of his being late because it's becoming part of his routine. Ahmed apologized because he missed his bus. Teacher censured his excuse that a responsible student always reaches on time. Ahmed had accepted that he would not be late again. Hearing that, teacher counted that where is his homework. Now don't say that; he had forgotten. Ahmed felt embarrassed particularly, that he was busy so he didn't complete it. Teacher censured him once again and assumed that he was playing games. Ahmed accepted his fault. Teacher suggested that studies should be his first priority. Even if he wastes his time, he won't achieve anything. Ahmed understood the point and decided to be careful from now on. Teacher had appreciated him and said sit down and focus on the lesson.
