

War has directly impacted tourism activities in conflict regions. Widespread anarchy throughout the region has discouraged tourists from visiting. Additionally, Many countries have warned their citizens to avoid visiting conflict regions. The war between Russia and Ukraine has impacted tourism activities tremendously, and both countries have lost have suffered significant financial losses since 2022. ~~Are~~ Many hotels, restaurants, and historical sites have been destroyed, which may take years to recover completely. Russia was receiving 22 million tourists annually; however, this figure has declined by nearly 96 percent. The conflict has stopped both domestic and international tourists from visiting safer places too. Additionally, Many tourism workers have migrated abroad, which has contributed to a long-term decline. Moreover, the conflict has disrupted flight routes, which has increased air fares and directly impacted tourism in neighboring countries. An international travel agency has projected that the global tourism will incur losses of approximately 19 billion dollars next year. Therefore, it is evident that armed conflicts have a indirect and significant impact on global tourism.

