Title:

Nizar Hassan: A voice for Palestine.

Nizar Hassan, born in 1960, was a prominent Palestinian film producer who used cinema to portray the Israel-Palestine situation. In 1994, he questioned the Israel's independence, as he believed it was a dispossession of Palestinian land. Furthermore, in his recent documentary, My Grandfather's Path, he interpreted intentions of Israel to capture more land of Palestine. Moreover, he delineated psychological trap used by Israel to control people, and explained the trap in these lines: If someone gets agitated by others' cruelty, he would soon end up like them. Additionally, if he wants to preserve himself from trap, he need to work on things he admires. Ultimately, Nizar Hassan relentlessly wrote about Israel's oppression and world negligence on Palestinian issue.
