

Précis:

Title:

Cold as a source of human energy.

Positive effects of cold are clearly visible in northern Europe, as it act as an obstacle to intensify humans energy. Both, the impossible obstacles and total absence of obstacles make human energy numb. Therefore, moderate cold weather strengthen humans, as it encourages to work in difficulties, but not a hopeless struggle. The same pattern is followed by ourselves, as hot weather leads to laziness, and cold weather motivates physical and mental activities.

(CSS-2018) Précis