Title:

Different Views on Freedom in Education

Precis:

There are three views on debate of freedom in education complete freedom, complete authority on them and conditional freedom. The third view is unsupported by real human behavior that liberty naturally produce goodness. Some opponents argue that education only provide a conditional environment for growth. However, this approach ignores the social need of cooperation and essential education. Modern societies which are stand on science and technology need education for basic skills. Complete freedom can only be successful for exceptional education who have ideal qualities.
