

Humanism Vs Nationalism [2025]

It is difficult to understand the roots of nations because they are built through various factors, thus making national identity more stricter which alternatively oppose the humanism concept of Socrates and Plato. Al-Ghazali emphasized to keep a balance between nationalism and equality for all citizens. Bhaba has also added that everyone should keep humanity first over personal interests however, increase in nationalism has done the opposite; bloodshed in Palestine and Bosnian massacre are the examples. Iqbal made everyone aware that democracy is just a mask beneath it lies imperialism which can exploit the soul. Johann Herder highlighted that nationalism can either unite or divide the people, depends on how it is used. A balanced form of nationalism is required; one that maintains national identity while protecting morals and fundamental human rights.

Total words: 619

Given words: 130

sentence is too long

15/20
main idea is picked and discussed over all content is fine need improvement in basic grammar
be precis and to the point

Titles Manto's style of writing

Manto was discouraged for his writings because everyone thought it lacked morals and was promoting vulgarity. but that didn't affect him, and he kept sharing the realities of life especially the people who were looked down in society. He believed no one is too good or too bad, it is combination of both. His characters live like humans. He was well aware about the fake and the real world and man's flaws. He wrote about bold topics but never became vulgar. Everyone could feel their struggles through his work and like other writers, his passion made him quite successful in his field.

Total words: 250 Given: 95

2024

Titles Importance of green spaces in cities

The parks in the cities provide peace and comfort from busy life. They are a home to various animals, keep air fresh, protect from heat and benefit our physical health. Many events can be arranged there which plays a key role in increasing individual interaction. Although it is a bit hard but very crucial that modern urban planning should not only give benefit to humans but the environment as well for a sustainable future.

Total words: 240

Given words: 70

8/20