

Introductory Paragraph

Poverty in Pakistan

Poverty is the mother of all crimes," said by Plato to highlight as a threat to a state development. It is poverty which compelled a person to do for illegal activities. And this, gradually, gives birth of many other problems. Poverty means having low purchasing power capability where people are unable to fulfil their basic needs like having food to eat, shelter to live and clothe to wear. Currently, poverty is in its peak in Pakistan. In Pakistan, it is caused due to many reasons, for example, increasing of unemployment rate, rising of inflation, unabated corruption and lack of implementation of constitution. Furthermore, due to poverty, Pakistan is facing many challenges like emerging the wave of insurgency and high number of suicide cases. However, Pakistan can counter poverty through taking some steps, for instance, working on skilled based education, granting subsidies to locals, prioritising the constitution implementation and working on drafting new policies for eradication of corruption. So, the poverty in Pakistan has many causes and affects
