

Peace is more powerful than
war.

well done

Peace is more powerful than war because it builds nations instead of destroying them. War brings losses of life, spread fear and long-lasting hatred, while peace promotes unity, tolerance, understanding and progress. Peaceful nations focus on education, economic growth and development, not on survival and threat. History shows that long-lasting peace is achieved through dialogue and cooperation, not through weapons. True strength lies in resolving conflict peacefully, peace heals wounds, gives hope, unites people and gives a better future for next generations.
