

Paragraph on growing up in Poverty:

Poverty, it is a largest social evil between <sup>those</sup> who have and have not.

The large population of middle class tightly wedged between the two extreme. Poverty or inability to meet the basic life facilities of a person. where basic needs like the next meal, shelter over one's head, clothes provide to cover are not met, and education, health care, housing necessities are not available. The people who survived through such situation, they face many challenges in life. They always face fear due to lack of money, and such people face a lot of anxiety in life. Such children who grow up in stressful atmosphere, they unable to survive in society. It is not hard to imagine how abject destitution and penury would affect the fragile mindset. It is leading to "scarcity mindset" or anxiety. Being exposed to such material deprivation increase the <sup>told</sup> manifest of being the <sup>one</sup> subject to abuse from a younger age. Due to poverty, the trend of early marriage, early pregnancies, child labour street violence, domestic ill treatment, sexual abuse are increasing day-by-day.

Such children are easily lured into temporary crime for the sake of few penny. From such misery they cannot be ruled out. This statistics is more dismal when it comes to female child. Limited resources are available and very little recourse to law and other safety measure, these scars remain life long ~~th~~ and cycle persists ~~th~~ after generation.

They are not excess to education, safe housing, medical facility, physically poor nutrition, poor vaccination, and that leads to poor health. Though government does provide free education below the age of 14. That's why they will know about their rights in society.

Noise, disruption atmosphere, lack of facility that develops lack of confidence, low-esteem in them who suffering from it. According to world Bank report, 44.7% people are living below the poverty line.
