

Judicial System of Pakistan :-

The judicial system of Pakistan plays a key role to enforce the rule of law, and maintaining constitutional supremacy. It is structured in hierarchical manner, with supreme court at the top, followed by high court and subordinate court.

This system should be independent, and strengthening justice to all citizens.

This system is working perfectly, without political pressure and other executive department. Judicial activism and suo moto have notices to strengthening the public confidence sometimes in court.

Ideally, judiciary is expected to be work perfectly related all cases. Despite, all these feature of judiciary it has faced many challenges. Corruption and ineffective involvement of higher authorities in lower courts causes to delay in cases. Thousand of cases are pending in court which undermines the public trust. To improve this situation, a comprehensive judicial reforms are necessary, merit-based appointment, digitization of court procedure, and affordable legal service. Only through these reforms judiciary strengthens the democracy which ensure the stability.
