

Essay:- Rising power: Threat or opportunity for global governance

Thesis Statement:- Rising power is a threat for global governance. On the contrary, rising power is an opportunity for global governance. However, rising power is a threat for the whole world.

plz at least define what is global governance and how this

Outline:-

I. Introduction

II. Rising power is a threat for global governance.

A. ~~Increase~~ political conflicts.

B. Decline in international aid, which is a threat for poor developing countries.

C. ~~Avoids~~ international law.

D. Fewer job opportunities for youth.

E. Dominates another country through war.

F. Faster new advance technology, which increases military power.

G. Ignore environmental issues.

III. Rising power is an opportunity for global governance.

A. ~~Increase~~ foreign direct investment.

B. Low dependence on other countries.

C. Enhance global trade opportunities.

IV. Rising power is a threat for the whole world.

A. Decline opportunities for domestic industries.

B. ~~Decrease~~ international cooperation.

C. Emphasis on tariffs by another country.

V. Conclusion.

improve your word choice please

Body paragraph: 2

what are these rising poweres

Rising power countries often decline international aid. International aid refers to helping another country through food, medicines, clothes, money etc. As countries gain more power, they may reduce international aid, which becomes a threat for poor developing countries. Most of the countries depend on international aid, especially during crises such as pandemic. When rising power countries reject international aid, it creates problems like food insecurity, and immigration increases, which creates disturbance in countries. "Christian Lagarde, warned that about 60 low-income countries should be seriously affected if rising power countries should could be rising power is a threat not only to one country but to global governance."

u are writing too much generic plz explain proper