Q. Precis + Titles

• Precis Writing:

All the evils in this world are due to busy people. Their energies are often misdirected. For Example, if in July 1914 the influential people had done nothing then humanity would have been in a much better condition. Similarly, if the European statesmen had not gone to Versailles for any serious business, the affairs of the world might have stayed peaceful. Presently, if half of the European politicians refused to do their jobs then mankind certainly gain by it. They would also recover their mental health if they were sent on vacations.

• Title: "Laziness: a disguise blessing."
