

Translation

History is filled with many successful people who started their lives facing many hardships but later on ended up as some of the world's most successful and notable personalities. Success, respect and fame are never attained effortlessly, only wealth can be acquired effortlessly provided that your family elders are wealthy and you will inherit that wealth. You can buy luxuries with money but you can buy happiness. Sometimes it takes an individual decades to earn respect but only a moment to earn disrespect or become controversial.