History is replete with many successful people who have started their life in an abject situation, but later on, they came forth as a successful and worthy personalities. It is difficult to earn success, respect and prestige. But wealth could be easily gained by getting it from your forefathers: if they have enough wealth to transfer it to you. You can buy worldly assets from wealth, but you cannot buy happiness from wealth. Sometimes, it takes centuries to earn prestige; only few seconds are enough to earn disrespect.
