

1 - The difference between human being's fear of death and children fear of darkness is the stories of ghost and thieves that children have heard have made them more afraid of death whereas stories about the suffering of dying men have made human beings more afraid of death.

2 - A person is adopting a religious and perspective on death if they see it as a form of punishment of their sins they have committed ^{or} as a way to enter other planet.

3 - Monks have documented the traumatic events they went through by subjecting themselves to physical torture as a means of self purification. As a result one assume that dying must cause intense pain. Such writing exacerbate a man's fear of dying.

4- According to Seneca, the Roman philosopher people are more frightened by death's surrounding and rituals than by death itself

5- ~~Ally~~ The facts that ^{give} ~~make~~ death more horrifying appearance are ~~dying about~~ a dying men ~~breathing~~ is heard groaning his body is seen trembling, his face looks to be completely bloodless and paled, upon his passing his family and friends start to cry and various rituals are performed