

Tabinda Waheed
Batch : 324

History has many examples of those successful people who started their life's journey with most difficult situations, but later on, they were enlisted in the most famous and well-known personalities. Success, respect and fame are never served to individuals, only money can be served completely. And for this, it is compulsory that one's ancestors had properties, only then one can have it. From money one can purchase things in this world, but he/she cannot purchase happiness. At times, it takes years for an individual to earn respect but only a few moments are required to destroy it. The history is replete with such successful people who began their lives in extremely difficult situations, but with time, they became successful and famous personalities. Success, respect, and fame cannot come to you on a platter. Only wealth can be bestowed upon you if you have ancestral property. For this, it is also imperative that your forefathers have left you with some property, only then you can gain wealth. With wealth, you can buy worldly possessions, but you cannot buy happiness. Sometimes, it takes many years for a person to earn respect or fame, and it takes only a moment to lose it by becoming involved in a dispute or by committing a shameful act.