Q2

Title: Pakistan, A country bereft of Unity

Anatol Lieven mentions in his book that only through exerting strong emotional pressure can unity of Pakistani soldiers be broken. Such a pressure is possible if their orders contradict their Islamic values. This is only achievable if Pakistani soldiers are ordered not to repel an US onslaught. The writer learned from soldiers that they were ready to defy their superiors in order to resist attackers. Such a disruption could only lead to a civil war and not a revolution like Iran experienced. Anatol mentions that lower votes for Punjab-based political party such as Muslim League in other provinces indicates the growing significance of regional identity in politics. Except for soldiers and some Islamists, the country is plunged into an identity crisis. A young Lahori told the author that even if he initiated a revolution with the best logic, people would still not join him due to ethnic differences.

Q3) Q1) What made Guderian a talented and rebellious commander was his natural talent to lead from the front, his ability to innovate war strategies such as using the tank as an operative weapon, and his ability to follow instincts irrespective of his superior's orders. This is what made him stand out and labelled as a rebellious commander.

Q2) The offensive tactics of Guderian included using the panzer forces to attack deep into enemy territory. He used to transport all the required elements of the forces such as artillery, food, infantry with the panzer unit so that the supplies can be used as the army battled. This is how Guderian carried out offensive tactics.

Q3) His argument with Hitler was pertaining to the rescue of German troops from Küstrin. When the German troops were running out of supplies and were encircled by the Soviet army, Guderian insisted that the troops should be rescued. Hitler, who had never ordered a retreat, denied.

which caused a disagreement between them.

Q4) Guderian's relief from command was actually a blessing. This is because after Germany lost the world war, many of German commanders were severely punished for their war crimes. Guderian, since he was relieved of command, was able to avoid any punishment. This is why it was a blessing in disguise since it saved him from being punished.

Q5) If Guderian was not sacked by Hitler before the war came to an end he would have met the same fate as many other German generals did. Guderian would have had to face charges for war crimes and would likely have faced severe punishment. This is what he would have went through if he was not sacked.

Chair of the Governors: "The meeting has been concluded, and I want to express that despite challenges faced this year, the school staff has performed admirably. The financial constraints have had a significant impact, and we're optimistic for a smoother year ahead. Our library stocks are at a low point, and I propose organising a series of fundraising events to support book acquisitions. I extend my gratitude to all staff for their dedication and wish for a successful year to come!"

Headteacher: "I'd like to offer my thanks as well to the chair of Governors for his valuable contributions to the school. With that, I officially close the meeting at 9:00 p.m."

Q7) In the present era, everyone is focused on their interests and no one cares for anyone else. Neither is there sincere love in anyone's heart, nor are sincere moral qualities sustainable. We are not only materialistic towards humans but also towards our country. Have we all ever thought that in this country where once wedding bells used to ring, now the atmosphere is clouded with terrorism? But, yet, nothing is beyond repair. If we genuinely love Pakistan and introspect, we can rectify many of our shortcomings ourselves. We are all architects of tomorrow - we should eliminate the differences between sects, poverty and prosperity, and the gap between lower and upper classes. We should unite as one and shape the future of this nation. Let's pray that every individual of this country comes together to start thinking about this country because Pakistan is alive.
