IJTEHAD

Introduction:

Ijtihad is one of the important sources of knowledge in Islam. It plays an important role in the adaptation of Islamic law to the changing needs of society. It has various forms and methods for its applications. Ijtihad is an important tool to align modern life with Islamic principles and to address challenges being faced by Muslims.

Meaning of Ijtihad

The literal meaning of Ijtihad is "Striving to the utmost".

In Islam it refers to exerting one's self to form an opinion in a given case or give decision on a particular matter.

The principle of Ijtihad is considered to be rooted in Hadith, in a discourse between Holy Prophet PBUH and Muez bin-Jebel on his way to Yemen as new Governor.

The Prophet asked about his strategy of deciding matters coming up before him. He replied, "I will judge matters according to the Quran", if the Book contains nothing to guide me I will act on the precedents of Prophet, if it fail too then I will make a personal effort (Ijtihad)".

Thus, Ijtihad is an Islamic legal authority referring to independent reasoning by an expert in Islamic law.

Forms of Ijtihad

There are mainly three forms of Ijtihad

- 1- Istihsan (Juristic Preference)
- 2- Istislah (Human Welfare)
- 3- Maslahah (Public Interest)

1- Istihsan

Literal meaning = to approve
In juristic sense, Istihsan is a method of exercising personal opinion to prevent any rigidity and unfairness from the implementation of law.

For instance: The decision of Umer Bin al-Khattab to suspend "hadd" penalty of amputation of hand during famine is an example of Istislah.

2. Istislah.

Istislah is an Arabic word which means "to deem proper".

It is a norm used by Islamic jurists to solve problems that find no clear answer in religious texts.

For instance: Imposition of an agricultural land tax in Islam.

2. Analogical Deduction-

It means applying analogy to Quranic injunctions to get solution for a related problem.

Example: Quran prohibits wine. So an analogy can be drawn that all intoxicants are prohibited.
