

Mock-5

English Essay :

Essay :

Success or popularity
what drives youth?

Outline :

1. Introduction.

Thesis statement :

Success and popularity are basically reciprocal of each other - But the main thing that drives youth is popularity - Because success ultimately comes after popularity.

2. How success or popularity drives youth.

3. Popularity is the hidden driving force for youth.

a) Students struggle for obtaining high grades to gain popularity.

b- Students leadership in universities is a way of gaining popularity.

c- Young generation came in politics for gaining popularity.

d- Young generations adopt popular professions.

e- Youth comes in media industry for gaining popularity.

f- Youth follows popular persons than successful persons.

g- Every successful person is not popular.

4) Success definitely comes after popularity.

a) Young cricketers gains success after gaining popularity in nation.

b) Politicians becomes successful after popularity in nation.

c) Media persons becomes successful after popularity

5) Popularity is sometimes unethical driving force for youth.

a) Sport fixing in cricket for gaining popularity

b) Dishonesty and corruption in elections for gaining popularity.

c) Media persons sometimes adopt unethical means for popularity.

d) Cheating in exam for gaining high grades to become popular.

6 Popularity trend is more common in Pakistan.

7 ~~7~~ Desire of popularity enables youth to achieve specific position in life.

8. Conclusion.

"The greatest trap
in our life is not success but popularity
or power"

Henri Nouwen

The very interesting question which everyone wants to know is either success or popularity which thing drives the youth to achieve anything in life. Basically popularity is the hidden driving force for youth because students, young politician, media anchors, and actors, everyone wants to achieve popularity instead of just becoming a successful person in society. And we can observe this in society that mostly youth follows the most popular persons.

in society. Because popular anchors, media person and politicians have more following than any successful but defame bussiness man. Because, usually all successful persons in society are not also popular. And, if we look at the other side of this view then we can say that success usually comes after gaining popularity. For instance young cricketer and politician easily gain success after gaining popularity. Although, sometimes popularity becomes unethical driving force for youth and young generation admit unethical ways to gain popularity, like politician are somehow involve in dishonesty and corruption just to gain popularity in elections - But instead of all these things, we must have to say that popularity

enables youth to achieve specific position in life.

Another very important thing is that how success or popularity enables youth to achieve
anything - And how these acts as a driving
forces behind success of youth. The simple answer is human nature and society in which human being lives. Basically human nature is like that human being wants recognition in their society and it is the second most desire after basic desires - And the society in which

human beings are living in a society which likes the popular and successful persons instead of defamed and loser.
So, basically human beings own desires of becoming popular and successful and the societal pressure enables them to achieve anything in life.

It is the basic <sup>desire</sup> ~~need~~ that everyone wants success but the basic hidden
driving force for youth to achieve anything is mostly popularity not success.
I can give some examples ~~that~~ which can prove this concept that the basic
driving force for youth
is popularity and the desire of positive
recognition in society.
If we talk about the students then we can observe thing that mostly students wants to make their parents proud and they wants to achieve a specific position in front of teachers and in front of their fellows - Because it is the common desire of children to gain attention. So, they tried to gain good grade in class for gaining attention of teachers and their parents. So, ultimately we can say that students also want popularity or fame in front of their fellows, teachers and parents - So, they do hard work for gaining his grades and ultimately for gaining popularity.

Students leadership in colleges and universities is also one of the good example of gaining popularity. Mostly, colleges and universities have youth councils and heads of these councils are usually the popular member of these councils. Mostly in universities youngsters tries to become popular in front of everyone for leading these councils. And for becoming popular young students proves their abilities in curricular and extra curricular activities. So, we can say the desire of leading their fellows compells them to do hard work in academic field. After these youth and students council, youngsters usually decide to gain more fame in society and then they decided to come in politics for gaining popularity.

Because, we can see in our own society that in small villages and town politics does not give financial power to youngsters but it usually gives fame and popularity to them in their towns and villages and this thing gives them satisfaction and somehow after popularity they established themselves in this field. Youth councils and youth wings are the basics ~~th~~ which then gives a platform to youngster to prove their leadership abilities and then they usually came into practical politics for gaining more popularity.

If we talk about another example then youngsters in media industry are the best example of this thing that how popularity act as a driving force for youngsters to achieve everything in life. The attraction of popularity in media industry (Drama industry, film industry etc) compels youngsters to achieve that specific position. Most of the successful and wealthy persons just come in drama and film industry to gain popularity - So, we can say popularity is the basic driving force for youngsters than for becoming a prominent member of society.

Due to this popularity trend, youth usually adopt those professions which are more popular in society.

One of the best example of adopting popular profession is the aspirants desire to adopt civil services as a profession.

Because civil services are most popular and famous service in society. So, aspirants mostly tries to see it for serving their country but for also becoming popular in society and family.

Some of the other

examples of: opting popular profession are opting of medical and engineering in youth because these are more popular in society. One of the other best example of opting popular profession is opting of acting and anchoring in youngsters of wealthy and already successful families. So many youngsters of wealthy and successful families just came in media industry (acting, anchoring, film industry) just to gain popularity in society.

And the fan following of these popular persons in society is much more than normal successful persons in society.

For instance:

JoJo Siwa, who is a teenage YouTube star and singer has 12.3 million subscribers / followers on Youtube. However Yo - Yo Ma who is world-renowned cellist and winner of multiple Grammy Awards has only 1.2 m followers.

And it is also the basic fact of our society that every successful person is not popular in the world on the other hand every popular person is mostly successful and well established in society. For instance Tim Berners - Lee who is the inventor of the World wide web and director of world wide web - He has a net worth of $10 million but still he is not so much popular

even he has only 3.9 m followers on Twitter.

So, we can say,
all the successful
persons are not as popular as the famous persons in society.

The most interesting
thing which everyone has to know is that thing that "Success
definitely comes after
popularity".

We can take the examples of most of the under 19
players, whose ~~gait~~ popularity in PSL
and then they achieved success along.

with popularity by selection in national cricket team. Basically their popularity in PSL and other under-19 leagues hits the public and the senior authorities and then they successfully ~~are~~ maintain their carrier -

Another very good example is that most of the political leader usually becomes successful after gaining popularity in public. When they becomes popular in nation then this thing compel public to vote them and to make them prominent member of national and provincial assembly. There are so many examples present in society of first-becoming popular and then becoming successful.

PTI leader Imran

Khan is also one of the best example of
it. So we can say

popularity is the key driver to gain success

and success definitely comes after popularity

If we talk about
media person then we can say and we can observe easily

that those anchors

and actors whose firstly become popular in society then they easily achieve success in their carrier. In Pakistani society, there are so many examples. One of the example is

host "Iqbal-ul-Hassan"
who firstly became
popular in society
by his method
of detecting criminals, and corrupt bureaucrats and then he literally
became successful in his career and proved this thing that success definitely comes after popularity.

However, we can say that sometimes the desire of becoming popular and the driving force of popularity in youngsters sometimes compels
them to involve in unethical activities and in unlawful means.

For instance, we can say that the
desire of becoming

popular in cricket compels cricketer to involve in sport fixing Because, through normal ways, they are unable to perform well so they usually done
sport fixing with opposite team member to improve their performance

( For instance, sport fixing with a batter
of any country
for not to out
the player of any country and when he does not out by the opposite batter
and eventually completes his century then this thing makes him popular in society).

Another common example of gaining popularity is dishonesty and

corruption in elections to gain seats in elections for ultimately
gaining popularity.

Some media persons
somehow involve themselves in unethical means to just be coming popular. And in this way <sup>ee</sup> "Lafafa anchor"<sup>oo</sup> term is very common.

Students also do ~~teachi~~ cheating in exams just to gain
high grade and after high grade
ultimately for gaining popularity. So, we can say that somehow popularity as driving force compels them

to involve in unethical means.

If we talk about
our own country specifically.

then in Pakistan
popularity is the most
driving force for youngsters to achieve
some thing in life.

The increasing no of media youngsters, youtubers Tiktaker and bloggers are some of the examples
that in our society
popularity is the hidden
driving force for
youngsters to become successful in life.

And this desire
of becoming popular
in society enables
youth to achieve
specific position in society. For becoming
popular in society,
youngsters tries their best to achieve a specific position in every field and ultimately

they becomes successful after becoming popular.

Conclusively, we can say that the basic
driving force for
youngsters in our society is popularity.

Because, it is a positive driving force
if we take it
positive for achieve goals - Although popularity as driving force has some ethical risks but ~~and~~ if we ~~use~~ see it positively and if youngster takes it positively to gain some best
position in society
then it is the best driving force
for youth to achieve everything -