Q 2:- Title: Unity and Discipline Challenges in Pakistan

Divided Pakistan: unfit for revolution

Precis:

Anatol Lieven in his book "Pakistan A Hard Country" says that discipline and unity in Pakistan can be ~~destroyed~~ ^{Can be breached} if Pakistani soldiers face powerful moral and emotional pressure. This could particularly happen in case of US invasion on Pakistan, where Pakistani soldier's duties to protect Pakistan and their Islamic morals can clash with orders of their commanders, as US interventions on Pakistan already ^{Are in clash with one another} disturbed armed forces' morals. This could split army, ~~cause Islamic upheaval and collapse of state, leading to civil war, rather than revolution like Iran.~~ He further added that 2008 election showed that regional identity is ~~more~~ ^{precious} to people than national identity. A laborer executive, Ali Hasan, said that even if he preach Islamic revolution, people won't follow because of caste, regional or family conflicts and that's why can't unite.

Q 3:- Comprehension

1) Guderian possessed natural talent as a commander, displaying initiative and a willingness to lead from the ~~con~~ front. He was also rebellious and assertive, willing to challenge his peers and even disobey orders when he believed it necessary. ^{Good here}

2) Guderian employed Blitzkrieg tactics during the war, favoring deep thrusts into enemy territory using panzer forces. He introduced the use of tanks as an operative weapon and aimed for rapid breakthroughs without concern for unprotected flanks. He planned to transport all supporting elements of panzer forces on trains, incorporating supply services to keep up with the tank core.

3) Guderian's disagreement with Hitler occurred during the German attack on the Soviet Union. As the German army faced a severe crisis with the Red Army's defence and supply line issues, Guderian advocated for abandoning a hopeless position and retreating across the Baltic Sea. Hitler, however, refused to authorize a retreat. This led to a heated confrontation where Guderian ~~op~~ openly opposed Hitler's decision, resulting in anger and separation.

4) Guderian's relief from command proved to be a blessing in disguise as it saved him from active command during the later stages of the war, shielding him from potential complicity in such activities.

5) If Guderian had not been relieved of command, he might have continued to be involved in military actions under Hitler's leadership. This could have potentially tied him to further war crimes and the eventual downfall of the Nazi regime. Being removed from command allowed him to distance himself from these events and avoid potential legal repercussions after the war.
