Question No. 07
(Translation)

Thinks about

~~Always, everyone~~ thinks about their interests in this ~~material~~ world. No one cares about others. Neither anyone loves ~~truly~~ nor empathise. Moral values have declined. We not only ~~lose~~ selfishness from people but also from our country. Have we ever wondered that the country where somatic musicals were played is now clouded by terrorism. Still there is time. If we love Pakistan wholeheartedly and ~~rectify~~ ourselves, we can thrash away ~~our~~ negatives. We are an asset of the future! We should dissolve sectarianism, poverty and class distinction. We have to work together for progression of this country. Pray, every individual of this country and nation think unitedly about this country. Because we all live as Pakistan lives.

Question No: 02 (PRECIS)

"Threat to Pakistan's Unity"

Anatol Leven says in his famous book that in order to break the national discipline and unity of Pakistan, powerful pressures are to be implemented on its soldiers. The pressure can be fostered when moral conscience of soldiers is questioned against the will of commander. This can be illustrated only in any possible United State Invasion, when commander orders to avoid any resistance against the attack. The author has been told that the morality of the soldiers is already been damaged by the regular subjugation of Pakistan to the wish of US. The author says that the soldiers can initiate mutiny in any direct conflict with US troops. Furthermore, he insists that with the damage of major institutions, civil war in the form of national revolution is most likely. Anatol Leven further demonstrates regional identity growing its roots in national politics as seen in the change of power dynamics in 2008 elections. Al Hassan illustrates an example of regional conscious to the author that, if he were to stand in religious or political revolution everyone will oppose him on the basis of region, culture, caste or creed.
